

GENDER ON THE BALLOT

She Votes: From Issues to Impact

WOMEN'S VOICES SHAPING THE 2024 AGENDA

Methodology

- Benenson Strategy Group conducted 829 online interviews nationwide from September 20-24, 2024 among women who are registered voters.
- The margin of error for the dataset overall is +/- 3.4% at the 95% confidence level and is higher among subgroups.
- Due to rounding, some percentages may not add up to 100%.

- Shorthand terms:
 - Parent <18: Parent of children younger than 18
 - Parent 18+: Parent of children older than 18
 - Right Wing News: Those who watch Fox News and/or media outlets like Newsmax, One America News Network (“OAN”), Breitbart, etc.

5 Key Takeaways

1

In a turbulent and high-profile election cycle, women are highly engaged with the upcoming November election and are tuning into politics at a higher rate than usual. Nearly half of women say this will be the most important election of their lifetime.

2

Vice President Harris has a 15-point lead over former President Trump with women nationally, and women believe Harris will win by the same margin. Independent women favor Harris by 18 points.

3

Women trust the Democratic ticket to address their top issue of inflation and bring down the cost of living. The Harris-Walz team has worked to gain a reservoir of trust not only on important issues – including on abortion and immigration – but also on leadership qualities across the board: who cares about people like you, who will be a strong leader, and who will make the country a better place for future generations.

4

There is also a lot of excitement about electing America's first female president. An overwhelming majority of voters think it's important to elect more women to political office and 6 in 10 think the government gets more done when there are more women holding political office. A strong majority also insists the country is more open to a woman president than 8 years ago when Hillary Clinton ran, driven mostly by Democrats and Black women.

5

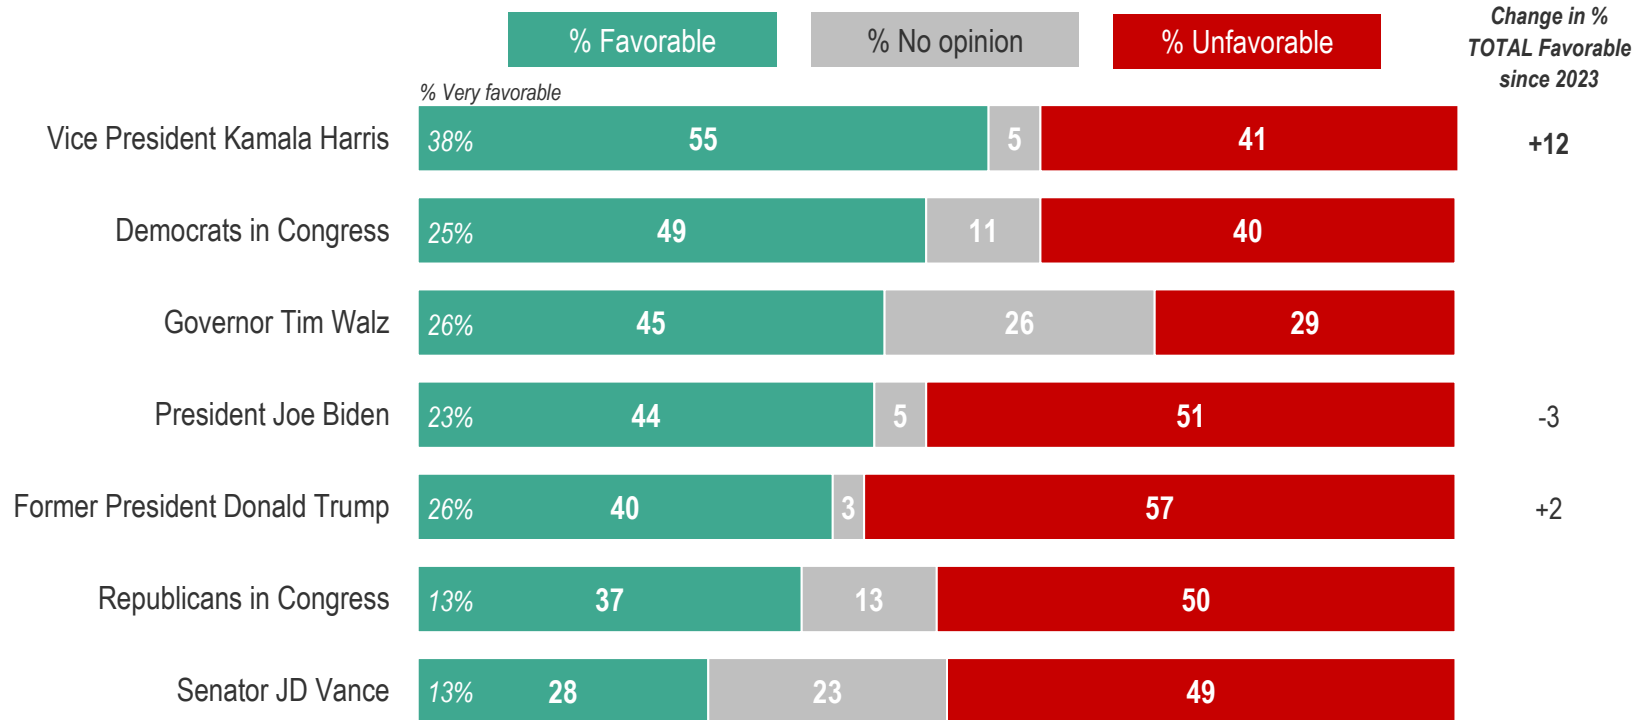

Despite recent attacks on reproductive rights, including abortion, birth control and IVF, voters are strongly supportive of ensuring access to anyone who needs it. A strong majority of women think abortion should be legal and available, without the government being involved, and want contraception and fertility treatments to be accessible and affordable.

Presidential Race

Harris has seen a huge jump in favorability since becoming the top of the ticket

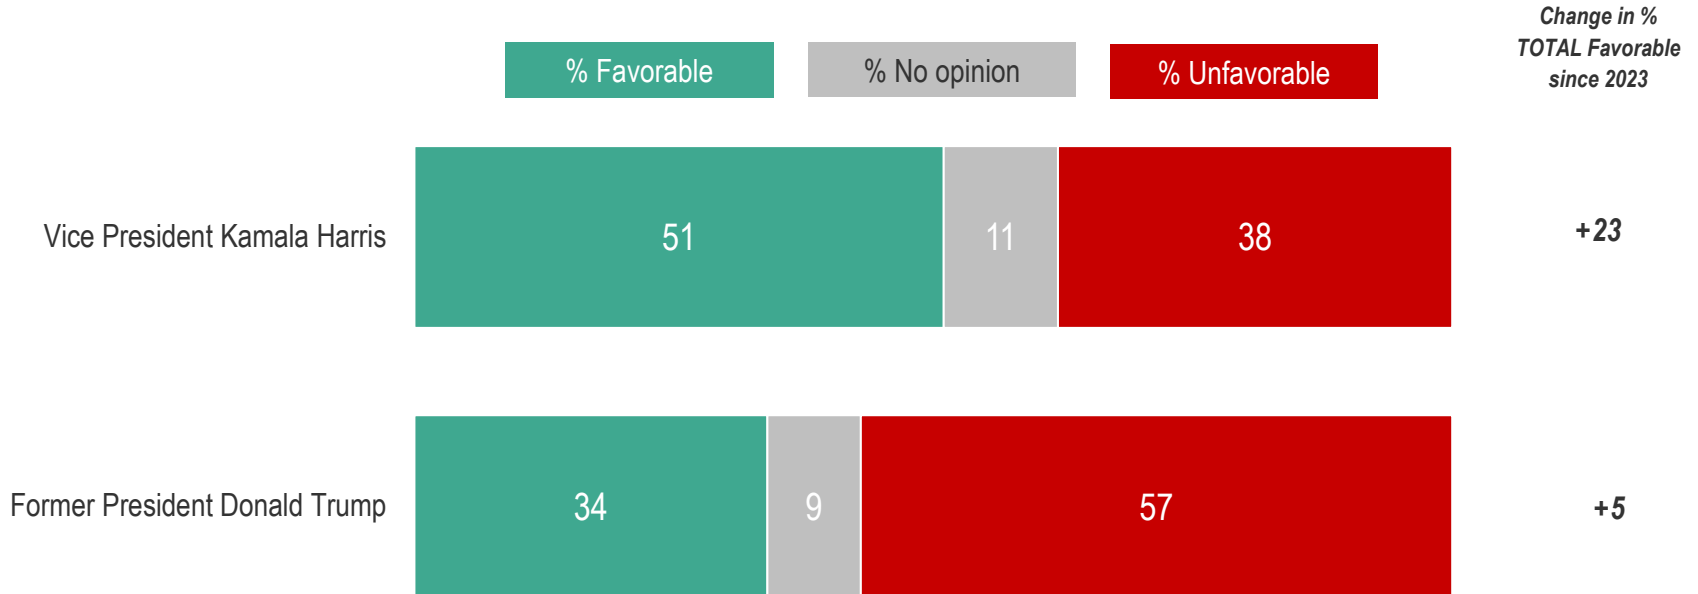

Favorability

And Independent women are much more favorable to Harris than they are to Trump

Favorability

Among Independent Women

Harris enjoys a 15-point margin with women in both voter horserace and predicted horserace

Presidential horserace and predicted win

Presidential horserace

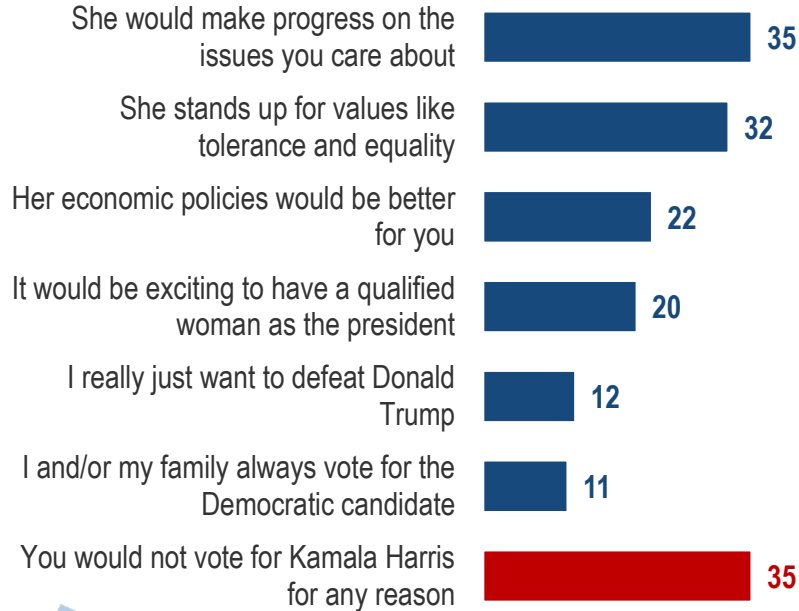

Predicted horserace

■ Kamala Harris ■ Other/DK ■ Donald Trump

Women open to voting for Harris cite her values and plans for the future, while women open to Trump think he is more capable and would be better for their financial situation

Reasons to vote Harris

Reasons to vote Trump

Women trust Harris and Walz more on top issues such as abortion and inflation, though their advantage shrinks on immigration

Trust in presidential tickets, issues

Harris and Walz are more trusted across the board to look out for voters – though skepticism about politicians creeps in to hold them below a majority on truthfulness

Trust in presidential tickets, qualities and values

Women resoundingly disapprove of Trump's leadership style, though 1 in 4 younger voters and parents with young kids still support his policies

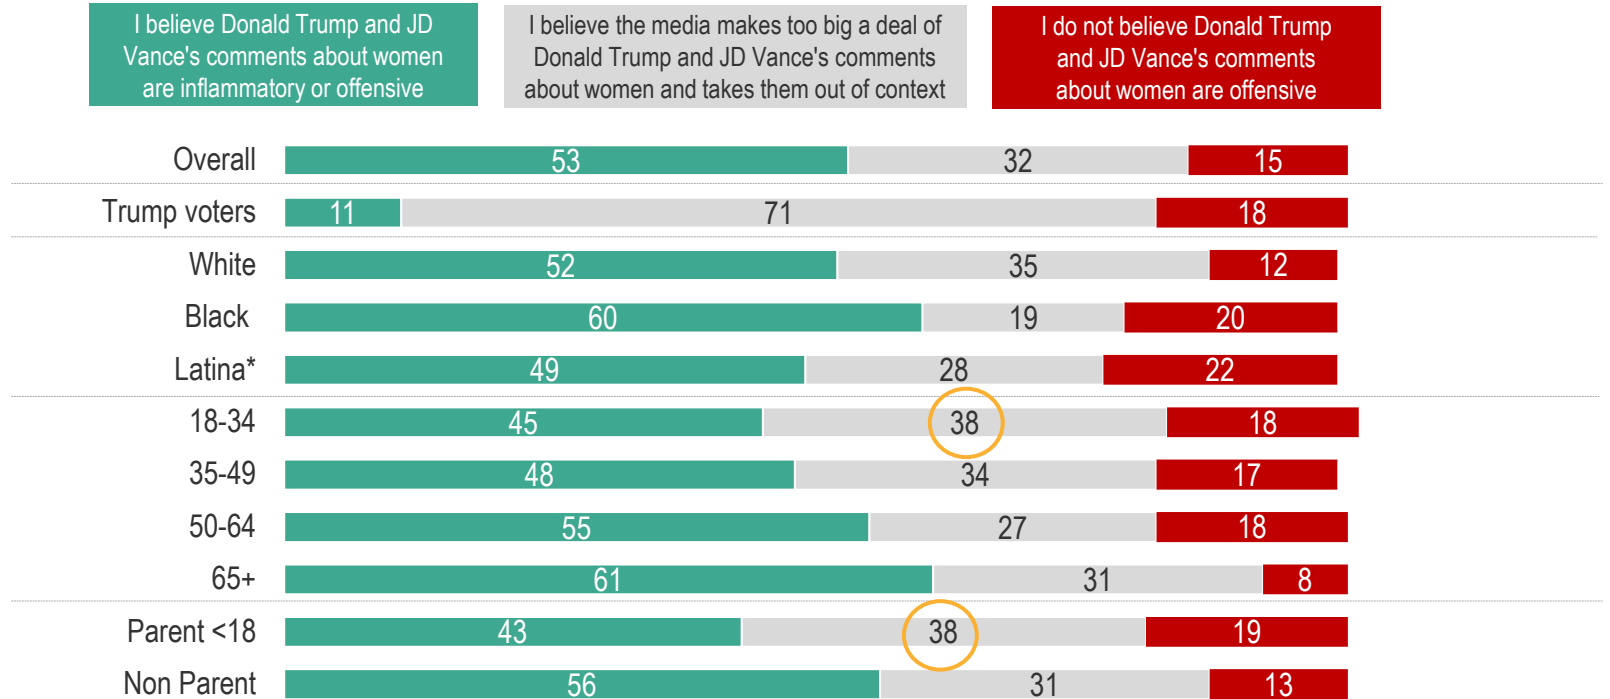

Trump support

*Base size <100, for directional use only

While a majority think Trump and Vance's comments about women are offensive, a sizeable chunk think it's overblown – showing continued resilience from verbal gaffes

Trump/Vance comments

*Base size <100, for directional use only

Political Engagement and Discourse

In a very turbulent election cycle, interest in politics has increased for most, especially for both young and old women voters

Interest in politics

In the past few years, has your interest in political issues...

*Base size <100, for directional use only

It's clear the stakes are high this election, and over 8 in 10 think this election will be more important than most (a significant increase from 2023)

Political engagement

*Base size <100, for directional use only

With breaking news seemingly constant, engagement numbers are up across the board, particularly among older, Democratic women and those with grown children

Political engagement

I have been more engaged with and tuned in to politics than usual because of everything going on this election cycle.

Everything going on this election cycle has made me feel more disengaged and more tuned out from politics than usual.

Change in % "more engaged" since 2023

Similar to 2023, the plurality of women who don't talk politics frequently cite lack of interest, but 1 in 3 say it's too confrontational

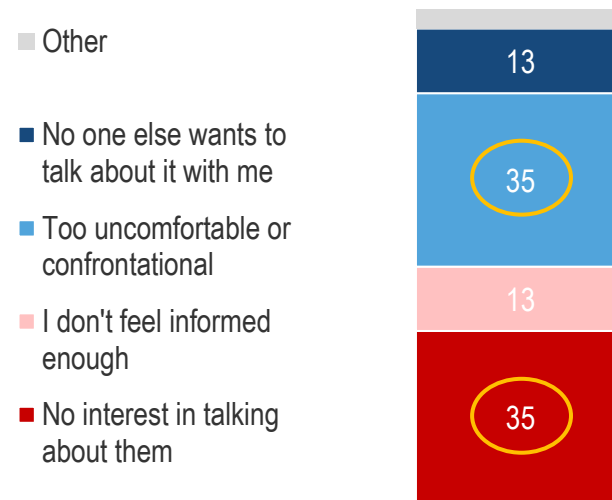

Political engagement

Thinking about your friends or family, either in person, online, or over the phone, how often would you say you talk about politics or current events with them?

What's the main reason you don't talk often about politics or current events with your friends or family?

Among the 31% of women who talk LESS than monthly

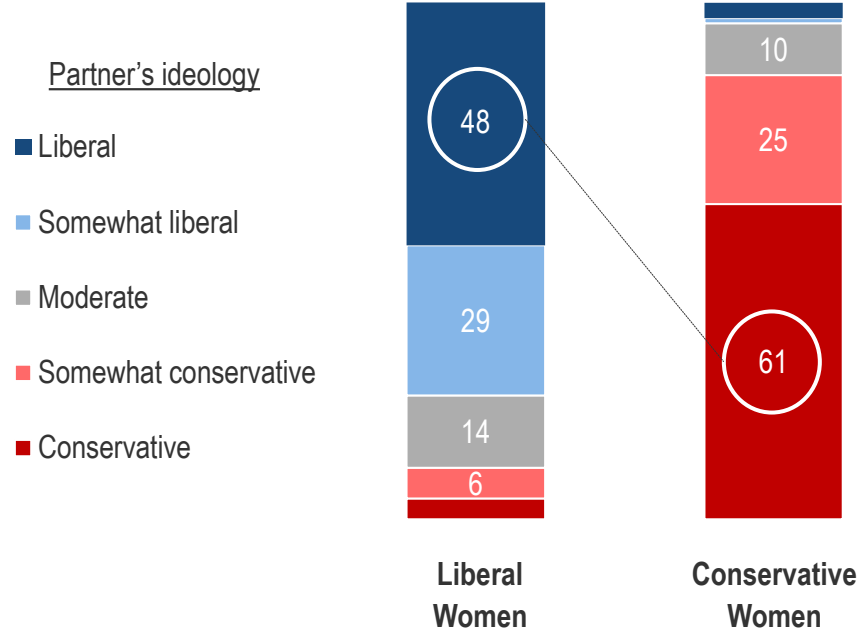

About half of women in serious relationships are in a “mixed household” when it comes to political ideology – which means there are sometimes disagreements on issues

Ideology within relationships

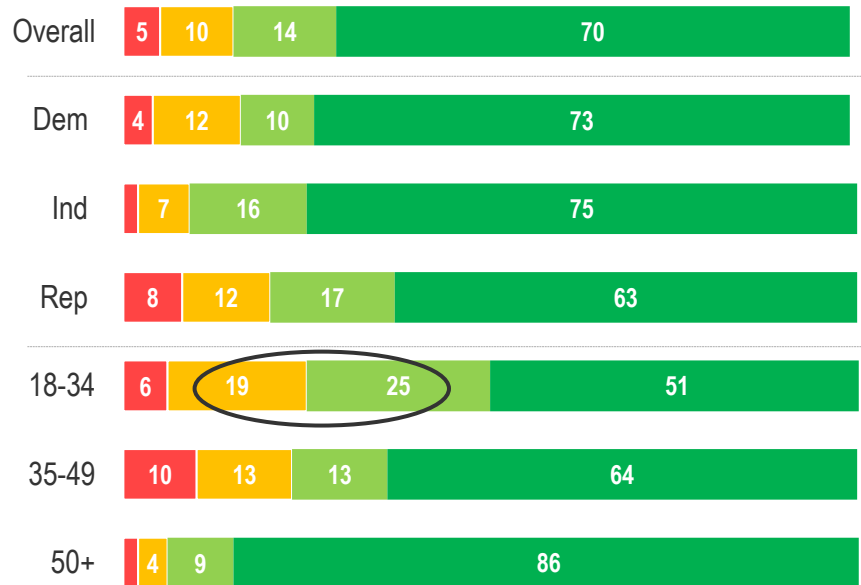

Conservative women are slightly more likely to be with a partner of the same ideology

Ideology within relationships

Most don't often feel there is too much pressure from their partner to agree, though pressure is more prevalent for younger and more religious women

Pressure to think/vote based on partner's politics

Economic Landscape

In an election year there is certainly more anxiety about the country's current state — though there is also more hope

Direction of U.S.

Which TWO of the following best describe your feelings about how things are going in the US right now?

Change in % since 2023

Inflation still dominates the mindset; women are also more focused on abortion and immigration than they have been

Most important issues when deciding whom to vote for

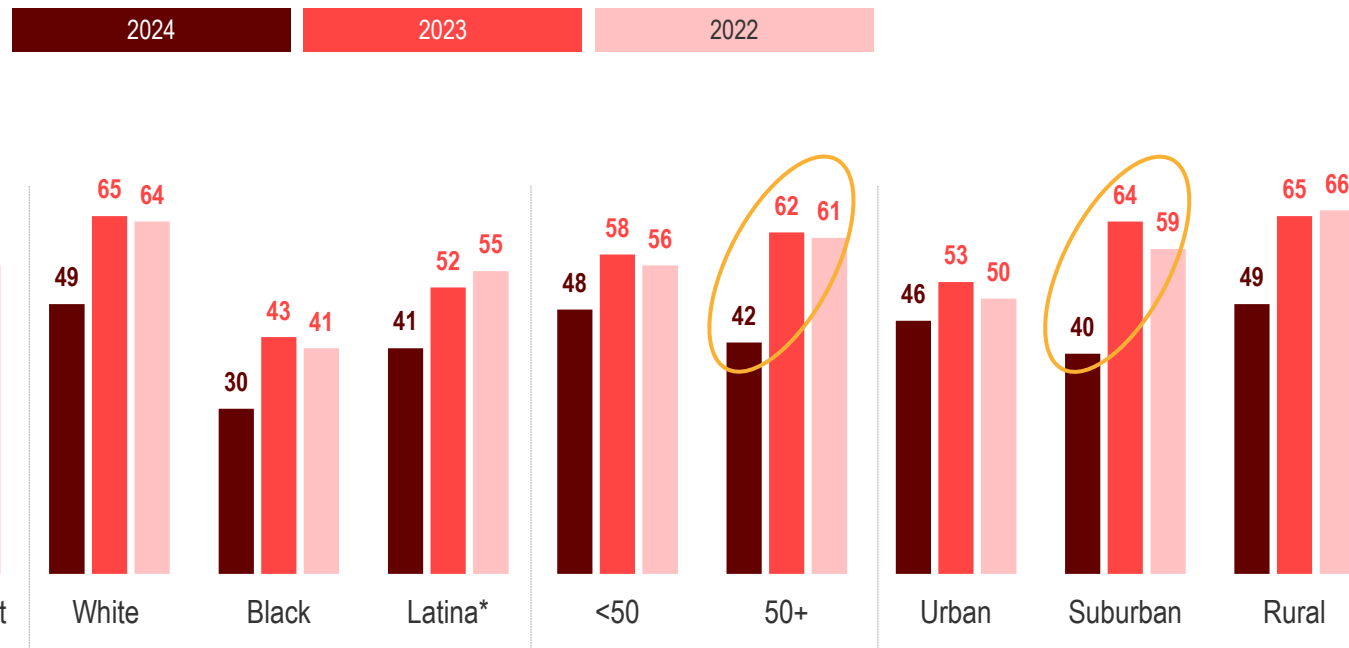

*In previous years "the economy" and "inflation" were separate responses.

"Border security" was added to immigration in 2024. It was not there in previous years.

2023 and 2022 shows data for "Foreign policy"

While still notable, women – especially suburban women and older women – are significantly less pessimistic about the economy than they were in past years...

% Pessimistic about the economy

*Base size <100, for directional use only

... Even though personal financial situations have sharply worsened, with nearly two thirds saying their situation has gotten worse

Personal financial situation

Thinking about the last couple of years, has your personal financial situation...?

- Non-Democrats: 73% worse (including 42% a lot worse)
- 35-49: 71% worse (including 41% a lot worse)
- Parents 18+: 66% worse (including 39% a lot worse)
- South Atlantic: 79% worse (including 48% a lot worse)
- Midwest: 75% worse (including 38% a lot worse)

Among those who say "worse":
45% are voting Harris; 45% are voting Trump

Burnout remains widespread, with increases since the pandemic

Burnout

Would you say you have felt burned out...

*Base size <100, for directional use only

Reproductive Rights

The vast majority continue to believe abortion should be available and not limited by the government

*Base size <100, for directional use only

Women continue to overwhelmingly believe abortion should be legal in at least most cases, and Republican women's views have softened

Abortion view

*Base size <100, for directional use only

There is near universal desire among women to protect access to birth control and strong majorities want to protect IVF and fertility treatments

Reproductive care accessibility

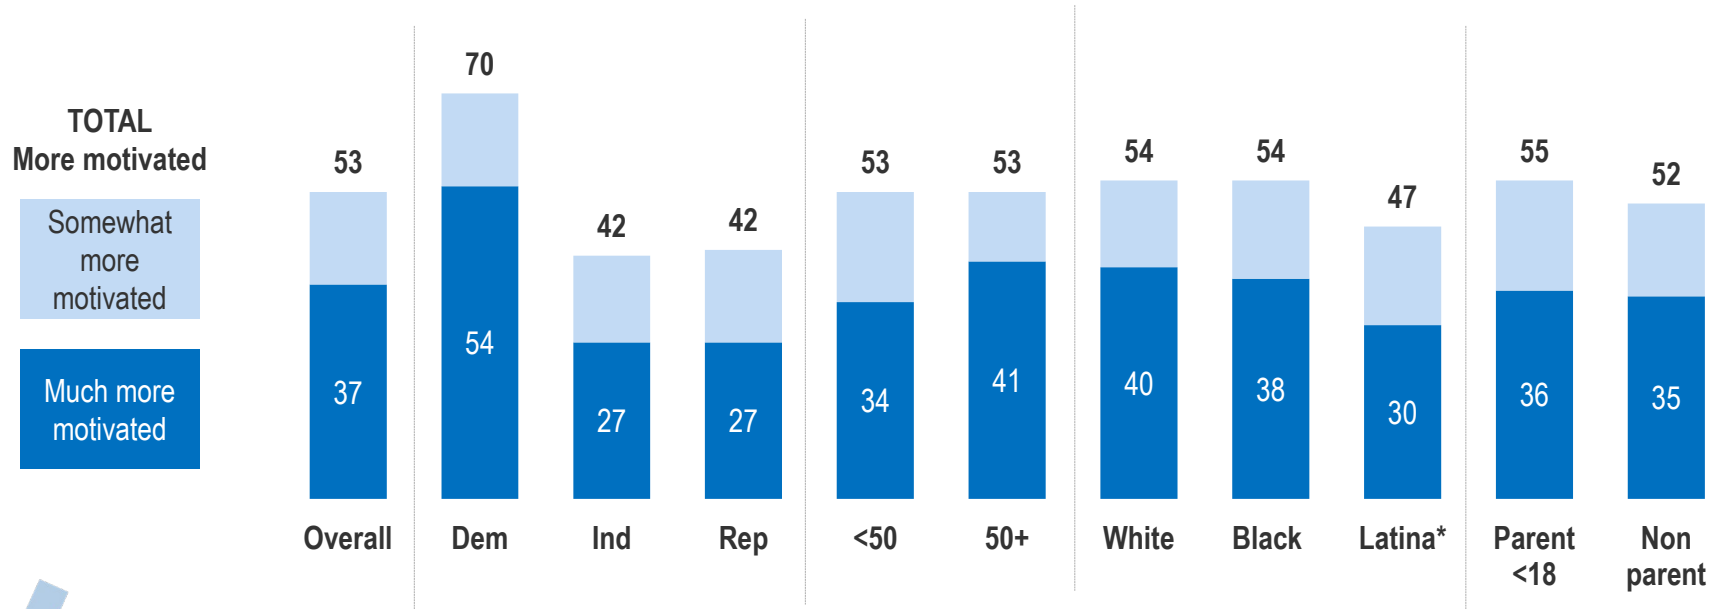

How important is it for birth control / IVF to be available and affordable to anyone who needs it?

Among most major demographic groups, a majority of women find abortion to be a highly motivating issue to get to the polls in November

Impact of current state of abortion

How, if at all, does the current state of abortion rights affect your decision to vote or not vote this November?

*Base size <100, for directional use only

Women in Leadership

9 in 10 Democratic women want to elect the country's first female president

Women in elected office

% Total Agree

	Dem	Ind	Rep
The gender of the president doesn't matter, rather their position on important issues and their qualifications.	91	70	23
It would be exciting to help make history by electing America's first female president.	86	58	27
Our government gets more done when there are more women holding political office.	88	83	80

A majority of Democrats and Independents believe electing Harris will open the door for more female politicians

Women in elected office

Electing Kamala Harris as our first female president will open the door for more women to run for office and get elected.

Electing Kamala Harris as our first female president will not change the number of women running for office in the future.

	% Total Agree
	Dem	Ind	Rep
Electing Kamala Harris as our first female president will open the door for more women to run for office and get elected.	93	60	25
Electing Kamala Harris as our first female president will not change the number of women running for office in the future.	29	49	60

Most continue to feel there are too few women in office

Women in elected office

Thinking about the number of women in political office, which is closer to your view?

Is the time right? Women believe that it is important to elect more women to political office and that the country is more open to a woman president than 8 years ago

Women in elected office

How important is it to elect more women to political office?

Do you think the country is more open to a woman president today than it was eight years ago when Hillary Clinton ran?

*Base size <100, for directional use only

1 in 10 women themselves wouldn't vote for a woman for president and 4 in 10 know someone who wouldn't

Know someone who wouldn't vote female

Do you personally know someone who wouldn't vote for a woman for president?

Yes - Me

Yes - My significant other

Yes - Someone else in my family

Yes - A friend of acquaintance

*Base size <100, for directional use only

WOMEN & POLITICS INSTITUTE
SCHOOL of PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Thank you!

Lindsay Vermeyen
Partner
lvermey@bsgco.com

Viva de Vicq
Manager
viva@bsgco.com

Cairo Lawrence
Analyst
clawrence@bsgco.com

Justin Kroll
Analyst
jkroll@bsgco.com